Excerpt: . . . reason, hallowed even the generous error which induced him to contract me to Miss Walsingham. Destined to resign in the flower of his days every advantage which makes this world dear to man, he studiously sought to secure them all for a son, who watered hi pale cheek with the tear of guileless childhood ! and to secure me friends at Court, . who might supply in some degree his own place, allied me nominally. to the politic Walsingham; persuaded his interest alone could counter-balance that of our inveterate enemies, the Cecil family. The event justified this opinion. A combination oi circumstances would have buried me in obscurity, had I not had the support and attachment of Sir Francis. Thus circum stanced, it would ill become me to reject the daughter of the man to whom I owe my safety and distinction ; but..
