The Elgin board practically controls the price of fancy Elgin butter produced throughout the Elgin butter district, which includes northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin, and eastern Iowa. The board does not control the maximum price, but does establish the minimum price. The board consists of somewhat less than 300 members, and more than one-third of the number live in Chicago, and included in the number are two of the largest Chicago packing houses. On Monday of each week a committee, consisting of 5 members of the board, and known as the quotation committee, fixes the price at which settlement shall be made for all butter produced during the preceding week. The sales on the board of any butter before the meeting of the quotation committee may or may not be taken into consideration in arriving at a...
