The lathe, the drill, the planer, the shaping-machine - in short, almost without exception, all machine-tools - are commonly driven from the shop-shaft by means of belts and pulleys; and we can scarcely glance into a shop or factory of any description without encountering a mass of belts which seem at first sight to monopolize every nook in the building and leave little or no room for anything else. Notwithstanding the countless thousands of belts for transmission in use and constantly being replaced in the shops and factories of America; notwithstanding the fact that many thousands of dollars are consumed every year by the rapid wear and destruction of our machine-belts, and the immense field thereby opened for the practical study and application of the principles of economy in this connection - there is no branch of machine-construction which is to-day in as crude and unsatisfactory a state of development as this all-important transmission by belt and pulley.
